

A BLOWUP IN THE EIGHTH

CUBS BEAT GIANTS THROUGH THE LATTERS' ERRORS.

Missed Ground Balls by Merkle and Murray Allowed Them to Make Four Runs New Yorks That Plaster Out of the Box—Ran Spots the Other Games.

The Giants and Cubs were the only National League teams to play yesterday and the Giants the only team to lose. They lost a game in which the emotions of the crowd ran the gamut and wound up in the depths. Now they'll have to take the next three to go to the front. Rain spoiled the other games scheduled. The results:

Chicago, 6; New York, 3.

At Brooklyn—Wet grounds.

At Boston Rain.

At Philadelphia—Rain.

BRUINS IN L. N. NEW YORK IN L. 3.

Black Friday at the Polo Grounds, a dark and clammy day, dark and clammy for the Giants, and the sun came out only to head on yesterday, and the latter looked over. Before the feeling was a fact accomplished the Cubs were the gloomy ones, and all New York was sobbing. The reason was the Giants were three games ahead and it looked like the game. It was their game until the eighth, when a faithful roster changed his seat, an awful thing to do when you're ahead. After that the deluge, otherwise the blowup.

The Giants took the lead in the third inning, when they made four runs and drove the southern professor, Jack

McCarthy, out of the box. From that on till the eighth all the heavy clouds had silver linings. Just what the Cubs had to do to duplicate the Giants' feat of making four runs in an inning they didn't take the trouble to explain, but they made them.

When they charged the Giants collapsed, the collapse embracing a base on balls by Matheson, but more harmful and paralyzing errors by Merkle and Murray, which were as deadly as prussic acid.

It was their own misdeeds which beat the Giants. With clean fielding, the Cubs would have had a lead by the eighth and let the Giants beat themselves. They were at all terrified by their speed or hitting were the Cubs. Each side seemed to be a little afraid of the other and there fore nervous. Why, even the distinguished author and strategist Mr. John I. Evers, was not so usual as he usually is, and he DETROIT, Mich., June 10.—Russell Ford lost his first game in his American League career to-day in a tenning battle with George Mullin, the Tigers winning out in their half of the tenth by a score of 4 to 3, when Mullin scored Tom Jones from second on a slashing single to center just out of Fosters reach.

The luck of the game was against him and I'm sure Egan was hoisted for his poor judgment on balls and strikes even though it favored the home hopes. The game itself was a medley of wild heaves, brilliant stops and dashes and matters baseball.

Ford himself was responsible for one run at the outset. McIntyre opened Detroit's first with a dinky bunt down the first base line which Ford hurriedly picked up and third past Chase, McIntyre tried to second. Bush fanned, but Cobb scored Marty with his first of four hits.

Morarity doubled to open round two and took third on Cren's wild heave and scored while Ford was throwing out Tom Jones.

New York's first tally came in the third, Sweeney beating out a bunt as a starter, taking second on a passed ball. Foster fanned. Hemphill was safe on a perfect throw toward third, Sweeney stopping at that point. Cullen, however, hit the third base and Hemphill and scored. Sweeney Detroit took what appeared a safe lead in the sixth, but Hemphill's error after
